2. International Financial Enterprise Internship

1st Day (7-16-2013, Tuesday)

We gathered at the port of Luohu in Shenzhen, after which we’ll heading Regal Oriental Hotel by East Rail Line. After settle down, we are going to the practice base located in Tsim Sha Tsui Harbour City, in which we will experience working in the headquarters of Prudential, which is one of the world’s top 500 companies. During the practice, we’ll experience the environment and the culture of the company and participate in the training course for the course of money management. We’ll also have a simulation of the investment. All students will be grouped and for each group we’ll arrange a senior expert of the company as a guide.

The experience about economy will be all way through the practice, which will help us early set a clear goal about our career in the future by feeling this world top company and communicate with its employees, experiencing the atmosphere of the international company and its working environment.

3. Public welfare marketing competition

Public welfare marketing competition is one of the core parts of MEP program. The Prudential assigned the task by the time it had made a rough training for every group taking part. After receiving the training in management and marketing, the participators will get rid of the fetters of control by textbooks, instead, they are able to use the knowledge gaining at school to meet the practical needs in a real commercial environment. Having been given the start-up capital, each group is asked for producing a new product and sells it. To finishing the task, the group members need to do the market survey to know the demand, find the target consumer, do appearance design, fix the price and make marketing strategy[2][3]. Hong Kong Charity Foundation is focusing on the whole process. All the profit shall be donated to the foundation in the name of the group which can also be awarded the certification of international voluntary working.

20:00, intern began. Internship students were divided into three groups and each group had nine people. I was in group B. In the first two days, we were asked to complete a public marketing race. The content is to design and produce a product for Guizhou mountainous pupils aging from 6 to 9 years. The best products will be selected for mass production after the sale. Each group has $ 200 (In this paper, $ is HK$) start-up funding. Product innovation, raw materials purchasing, product production, advertising should be completed by own team members. On the 18th at 3:30 pm ~ 5:00 at Tsim Sha Tsui, we gave out questionnaires for product market survey to passers-by to access our products and asked for advice. 7:00 pm, the product launch meeting was held in the company.

When it came to discuss, the phenomenon was really active and harmonious. We first geo-location analyzed Guizhou and drew some conclusion about the climate, altitude, terrain and so on. Moreover, the target consumers are pupils who go to school several hours on the dark muddy slipperly and bumpy mountain road from dawn to dusk. The mountain climate in winter is easy to frostbite. After discussing for two hours, the initial formation of the general idea is a raincoat, a pair of gloves, in order to face with the cold and rainy mountains of Guizhou hostile natural environment.

At 2:00, the ultimate scheme finally came out. The product called “love-warming two-piece” consists with a multifunctional raincoat and a pair of gloves as shown in Fig.1.

(a) Multifunction Raincoat  (b) Multifunction Gloves

Fig1: love-warming two-piece

- Love Raincoat
  1) Combining the raincoat with schoolbag: a waterproof bag with zipper is inlaid in the raincoat, which is specially designed for the mountain area pupils in Guizhou Province according to the real condition.
  2) Special fluorescent material: a China map painted with fluorescent paint is on the back of the raincoat, which makes the user can be seen in the dark and serves as a security alert. Not only does the special design show great respect for our nation, it also reflects back the nationwide concern.
  3) Raincoat hat mounts miniature flashlight which can illuminate the dark mountain road in the morning and at night when walking. This can increase the safety rate.
  4) On the back of the raincoat, we designed venting hole, which can enhance the comfort.

  Materials: Plastic raincoat, plastic, harmless fluorescent paint, tiny flashlight, battery.

- Warming Gloves
  1) Palm is designed with texture to avoid slipping.
  2) warm keeping: Using internal and external two-tier structure, cotton gloves inside and external windproof rubber materials can double the ability of keeping warm.
  3) waterproof

  Materials: household kitchen gloves, mat, cotton gloves, needles and thread, scissors and so on.

  Given to the background of the public service market race and mountain area pupils, we named our group as LED, which consisted of the first letters of the word “love”, “education” and “dream”. The special name, on one hand, is same as the abbreviation of light-emitting diode, which means the desire for illustrating the future road for the children.

2nd Day (7-17-2013, Wednesday)

On the 17th morning 8:00, we started purchase the raw materials and at 10:00 we began to product. Since 14:00 we need to arrive at the company at Causeway Bay to meet the mentor, we had to finish our task in advance.

All the work has been done by 3:00, everyone return to the hotel, tired but full of sense of accomplishment. We decided to rehearse for the production promotion 7:00 am in the hotel lobby.

3rd Day (7-18-2013 Tuesday)

We nine appeared on time in the hotel lobby at and the rehearsal was successfully completed. The scheduled visit to the Hong Kong Exchanges and Clearing Limited enabled us to better understand the history of Hong Kong financial development. After the visit, we got dressed in our team shirts and rushed to Star Ferry at Tsim Sha Tsui. 10 copies each person, we had a total of 90 copies of questionnaire to issue and was only allowed to survey in an allocated area.

The majority of our respondents were people who stopped by, students in dessert shops and foreign tourists. The first respondent was a woman around her 30s who stopped in front of a convenience store with her suitcase. Psychologically well prepared for wariness and suspicion people may have, I was just overjoyed and enthused that I was an intern student from a mainland university working for a non-profit project. When I spoke out “non-profit”, she turned relaxed and readily agreed to join in the survey. After a brief talk, I waved goodbye to her, warmed inside. The success of the first try greatly encouraged my confidence. Considering that the users of the product are primary school students, I also made some survey on several young pupils and their parents.

When the survey finished, apparently I felt that foreigners were much more attentive than Chinese. They listened to my introduction with questions, and thought over every question on the sheet. Foreigners even wrote on the suggestion column, which was often neglected by Chinese. I was deeply inspired by their concerns about rights. It seems that westerners tend to grab every opportunity to express their point of view.

Most of the respondents have listened to my introduction enthusiastically and filled out the questionnaire carefully. However, there were many people who refused me with “sorry”. Every time when I was refused I would immediately go on for the next person with the same enthusiasm.

Standing by the Tianxing dock, I felt the Hong Kong is such a free trade port, which has witnessed too much differences and conflicts, bringing about too much tolerance and integration. The huge differences make Hong Kong an international city, which also lead to the unique social formation with combination of the east and the west as well as cultural charm.

7:00 pm, we arrived at Prudential to attend the production promotion competition. Every minute of our presentation has been carefully designed. In the session of products show, I acted as a product model. The speaker introduced our products. Our performance proved to be outstanding, which won the praise of Prudential’s staffs. Group A designed a table game with beautiful Disney checkerboard background which made the group proud of. But the company executives, Michael, had pointed out sharply: "You don’t have Disney designs copyright." The moment, all of us was shocked. This business sensation is what we college students lack of. Group C made a versatile glass but not competitive. Eventually we Group B won the marketing champion.

The client basic information is as follows:

Richard works for three years after graduation with an annual salary of $180000, growth rate of 5%, and annual bonus of 15%. MPF (fund) he has to submit accounts for 5% of annual salary, with $3000 per month going to his parents, credit card debt of $50000, and the monthly payments for bank equaling the minimum quota of the requirements. 90% of the assets are utilized to invest in the stock market with 40% return in 3 years.    Richard, 25, has been working for a company for 3 years, being given an annual salary of $180000. The rate of salary growth is 5%. Due to the value of the salary will be approximately offsetted against current local inflation; therefore, there is no need to account for the wage growth and inflation to calculate personal assets. The monetary unit of not indicated in the following formula are in HK$.

2) Analysis
   a) Personal Income
   According to Hong Kong in 2012 per consumption ability data, the average monthly cost at $4700~$5200 level is conservative. With the Prudential Corporation pension formula, we get the following results:

   1) Working income: 180000*3+180000*15%*3=621000
   2) Investment income: 316800*90%140%=399168 []
   3) Income stable and reliable, and with huge potential to mining.

   [*] In accordance with the inflation rate of 3.9%, expect the retirement age of 50 years.
   [] Per year reward apportion: 27,000/12=2250
   MPF apportion: (180,000*5%)/12=750
   Apportion to the real estate per month is: 3,000,000*90%/12*(1+2.15%)*50%=4,815

   2) Insurance Products
   a) Personal Income
   According to the above personal financial data, there are lots of problems for Richard’s investment strategy yet great potential to mining.
   1) The portfolio too monotonous, risk aversion ability not strong enough
   As a high-risk stocks occupying the main part of the personal financial management system, which can cause the instability of the personal financial system and is about to shouldered the huge potential risks.
   2) Insurance products limited, asset preservation ability is insufficient
   The property insurance product guarantee ability is not able to undertake risk in the investment structure, which is difficult to deal with emergency in a long period of time. Personal assets preservation ability needs to be improved deeply.
   3) Income stable and reliable, with huge potential in financial investment securities; fifth floor investment is for high-risk & high-return stock or derivative products, etc.[4][5].

And Richard’s financial investment emphasizes most in stocks, which is like the upside down triangle. The “top-heavy” structure has great hidden trouble. Stock is doomed to boom collapsed, and if Richard's stock fell seriously during a certain period of time, it will directly influence the total assets. What we suggest is to transfer out some funds from stocks, using the average cost method to do other investment so as to spread the risk.
