Subject of this article Haikou crater surrounding tourism resources and Villages Case summary and discussion of practical and theoretical issues, tourism and leisure agriculture and rural tourism development, according to the rural reality, the planning and design of agro-leisure theme of rural landscape will be the study.

The Design Principles of Rural Leisure Agriculture Landscape Planning

Rural agricultural areas is a form of regional economic organization, its landscape planning and design must first have the overall concept, landscape planning and design requires the use of multi-disciplinary knowledge, the landscape as a whole to think and design, function and achieve coordinated development of ecological achieve overall optimal use.

Rural Landscape should first adhere to when developing planning local guidelines, should make full use of local native element, to maintain local and authenticity rural resources, and create a rustic image, for example, maximize the use of locals architecture; greening the choice of species they use native plants, not to engage in large-scale construction projects, try to keep the original structure of rural landscape; introduction of appropriate incentive measures to keep local agricultural and cultural patterns.

The reason why rural village called because of its original natural features, to a rustic natural agricultural landscape, terraced terrain, colorful hybrid forest and other natural landscape elements oriented, moderate plan design art ecology.

As the role of natural and anthropogenic disturbances, and landscape ecosystem over time and will continue to occur in the structure and function changes that affect the tourism landscape of healthy and sustainable development. Therefore, in landscape planning and design must follow the principle of sustainability.

Ecological aesthetic principles include natural beauty, ecological relationships harmonious beauty and artistic beauty and environmental integration, it emphasizes man rule, symmetry, form, lines, etc. In sharp contrast, the highest aesthetic guidelines for landscape planning and design.

The Development of Rural Tourism Advantages and Prospects

Chinese vast territory and natural type is complex, forming a diverse rural agricultural landscape. Nationally, can be divided into northern rainfed agricultural landscape, agricultural landscape paddy south, northwest of grassland animal husbandry and irrigation oases, Southwest Mountain plateau landscape agriculture, animal husbandry, agriculture alpine landscape, coastal landscape modern agriculture and so on. These rural agricultural landscape resources are different characteristics for the development of Chinese rural tourism provides excellent conditions.

China is a large agricultural country, agriculture is ancient. A long history of agriculture, rich farming culture, is a good basis for the development of cultural tourism in rural agriculture. China is a multi-ethnic country, there are 56 ethnic distribution in the vast countryside, particularly in the western region for the minority concentrated area. National customs, culture, ethnic habits, national life, national construction, national festivals and other colorful, unique resources, the development of rural folk culture tourism.

With the rapid development of the national economy and urbanization, urban scale, population has great growth, deteriorating working and living environment, leading to more intense urban residents to the outskirts of rural tourism wishes. Coupled with the increase in urban incomes, increased vacation time, to improve traffic conditions and changing consumer attitudes, both for the development of rural tourism to provide a broad market.

China is a large agricultural country and farmers, to solve the "three rural" issue is the development of Chinese social economy, the top priority of building a moderately prosperous society, causing a high degree of the CPC Central Committee and all levels of government. Solve the "three rural" issue, first of all to people-oriented, in order to increase farmers' income as the center, adjust and optimize the agricultural structure, the transfer of rural surplus labor. The agri-tourism and rural tourism, it is the adjustment of agricultural structure, to achieve combination of agriculture and tourism, a new way of combining industry and tertiary industries, the development of rural economy, a new bright spot. China has the resources to develop rural agricultural tourism, huge market prospects. The future of China is not only a tourist destination but also rural agricultural tourism should become the world's major powers. Looking to the future, rural tourism and agri-tourism will be shown on Chinese soil, its vitality, to develop into a very viable new industry.

Conclusion
Leisure agriculture is a combination of production, life and ecology, "Sansei one" of the industry, which aims to utilize rural resources, combined with tourism and leisure, promote agricultural restructuring, increase rural employment, increase farm income, rural economic prosperity, promote rural development.

The ultimate goal of development is to promote agriculture and leisure agriculture and rural area development area, development of leisure agriculture is one of the means to revitalize the agricultural area, which is designed to help address the small scale, and industry and more agricultural employment and aging agricultural management dilemma way. Therefore, development is not the ultimate goal of leisure agriculture and leisure area of the farm, but with the push of leisure agriculture industry to boost the overall development of rural areas.
