Daily items designed by Miao people are the carriers of Miao culture, also an important way of cultural transmission. Their basic necessities are simple and practical. Since most people are designers, producers and users, Miao's design focuses on user experience. For example, the building is a stilt house built mainly of wooden structures, adapting to the local environment. Miao people staple food is rice, most of them planted rice, while fish in the water, without fertilizers and pesticides. Miao girls are dexterous, using hands to create a beautiful art world. Miao boys are ethnic originality, produced many beautiful silverware, musical instruments. Lusheng is a Miao instrument with unique shape. The design of the article is not only practical, but also has aesthetic characteristics, reflecting the unity of function and shape due to Miao's originality in the design of creation. In particular, clothing, Miao Embroidery and jewelry are daily necessities, but also with aesthetic value of art. III. CULTURAL CONNOTATION OF MIAO DECORATIVE ART SYMBOL

Miao ancestors were open-minded, with a wealth of imagination and amazing creativity. Unbridled art practices, bold exaggeration, the deformation of the composition and modeling. Whether it is the sun, the moon, the stars, or the flowers and insects, they are beautiful and charming because of their imagination. Using the unobtrusive manner to depict various life forms in nature, it fully embodies the vivid artistic features in the traditional Chinese culture. Miao decorative arts have great varieties, such as Miao costumes, Miao silver and so on, they are the most distinctive representatives. Various types of decorative arts have a wide variety of graphics and symbols. The most typical art symbols associated with religion and ethnic emblem include the following:

A. Butterfly character

[3]The butterfly symbol accumulates the primitive consciousness of Miao people worshiping ancestors and is the most typical decorative art symbol. Corresponding to a large variety of butterflies in nature, the Miao people have many artistic ways to represent butterflies. Colors and forms in different poses and with different expressions. See Figure 3. Butterfly Totem. Miao people think that the butterfly is the ancestor of the Miao people, a large number of costumes in the butterfly symbol of respect and worship of ancestors, reflecting a certain extent, the complex of reproductive worship. Many events in the Miao Festival have a direct relationship with butterflies, and the festival of drum tracks is the god of worshiping gods and butterflies.

B. Dragons symbol

[3]Miao’s dragons are different from the images of the Han nationality dragons. The dragons in the Miao nationality's clothing are free to change their freedom and integrate the image of various totems worship into one. IV. ENLIGHTENMENT OF MIAO CULTURE AND ART TO MODERN DESIGN

Miao's culture and art have enlightenment and reference for modern design. The design philosophy of the integration of Heaven and man of Miao is consistent with the modern ecological design. In general, Miao's design culture is the unity of humanity and ecology. Decorative art symbols of the Miao nationality also provide abundant material with modern design. These symbols also bring a lot of design inspiration for the modern designer. Such as butterfly, horn symbols, dragon totem symbols, there are all kinds of flowers and birds, various pattern, color bright, full of strong national characteristics. These adornment art symbols can be used in clothing, daily necessities, and advertising, packaging, as well as tourist souvenirs. All these symbols have made the modern design with the Miao culture background and emitting the charm of traditional culture.

A. Combine the Miao culture decorative arts symbols with modern design

Miao embroidery is a precious intangible cultural heritage with colorful patterns. Miao embroidered charm lies in its bold use of color. No taboo in the color, for example, they boldly use of red with green, purple with green, purple with black. As a result, Miao embroidery has reached an exaggerated and harmonious effect. Such as the Miao people in the southeast of Guizhou are dressed in red, orange and sky blue embroidery. Red is widely used in thematic pattern, and is set off by black base cloth. Therefore the whole picture is very clear and harmonious, three-dimensional, extremely strong sense of hierarchy. Miao decorative patterns can be extracted. All these patterns used in bags, clothing, scarves are very beautiful. They appear not only fashion, but also full of national characteristics. When Miao decorative patterns applied to the design of modern clothing, the shape and color appear new and unique. Miao girl's festival dress is elegant, colorful, with silver headdress and collars, filled with festive atmosphere as shown in the Miao ethnic festival. The clothing of the Miao is closely associated with nature, and it shows the beauty of nature. It expresses the idea of man and nature merge into one. The Miao people have the reputation of "clothing clan". Their clothing was described as "living fossil of Chinese clothing history". Miao nationality dress pattern is numerous, color is gorgeous, the pattern is rich, the design is varied, together with the craft is exquisite unique, the silver ornament of glittering and shining is beautiful. The modern clothing that use Miao nationality's adornment art design, modeling is unique, color collocation is ingenious. Figure 7 is the clothing that blends into the Miao elements. Figure 8 is a reference to the decorative arts of the Miao nationality. The colors are bright and rich.
B. Using local materials, according to local conditions, follow the concept of green design

Most of the product designs of Miao choose natural materials, such as wood, cotton, bamboo and other natural materials. Traditional and environmentally friendly processing methods usually applied. Hard-working and wise Miao people use bracken to make artifacts. It is a typical green design. The fern braid is mainly made from the fern stem, and this raw material gives the fern braid a different characteristic. Because the fern stem contains bitter element and cellulose so the fern braid is not easy to be mildew, not easy to change color, variation, thus the fern braid has a unique style. As shown in figure 11, the fruit plate is made with ferns. Figure 12 is a pendant lamp with a fern pole. These products are novel, practical and full of national characteristics. In addition, the traditional handicraft will be inherited.

C. Miao silverware modeling and technology and modern jewelry design

Miao silverware processing, [1] are all done by hand-operated family workshops. In modeling design, Miao silversmiths are good at drawing inspiration from other arts, and make innovations in the overall shape, details and local depictions. After silversmiths design and processing, pieces of silverware have their own characteristics, dazzling. Figure 13 is a silver-tipped fin and silver comb. Silver finch can fly in the wind. It is both with costumes and a daily routine used to fix the hair utility. In short, the Miao silverware has exquisite style, exquisite workmanship, though only a small jewelry is gorgeous full of vivid charm. Miao nationality silver jewelry and Miao nationality's dress collocation is natural integration. Modern designers, with modern aesthetic perspective, combined traditional elements of ethnic minorities with modern advanced technology to create a line with modern aesthetic fashion jewelry. As a result these jewelries not only have national characteristics, but also have international characteristics. Designers can look for national roots from the traditional culture, trace the ancestral footprint, can find the direction of the development of modern design. Progress in social development does not mean that we can abandon the traditional national culture. On the surface, witchcraft, mythology and totem culture may be incompatible with modern society. However, modern designers can find the relevance of traditional culture and modern social culture. Instead of the traditional shape of Miao people's jewelry big, heavy, and complex, we design small, light, simple jewelry. For example, the use of elements designed by Miao elements Pisces bracelets and bull head pendants shown in Figure 14, Figure 15, modeling simple, stylish and sophisticated. They are full of fun.

VI. CONCLUSION

Miao culture is a unique part of Chinese native culture, a treasure of China's splendid culture and historical wealth. [7] Miao culture continues to flourish in its integration with foreign cultures. The design of Miao obeys the objective laws of nature and reflects that human, things and environment interact with each other coordinated design concept. In essence, the design of the Miao is to protect the environment, rational use of natural resources, maintain the ecological balance of the sustainable development. The decorative arts of Miao nationality have unique aesthetic appeal. Therefore numerous traditional national elements have a great use in modern design. Contemporary design is neither to abandon the traditional culture of the nation nor to copy. Once the relationship between national traditional culture and contemporary design has been severed, contemporary design has become passive water. National culture and modern design is a complementary relationship. The only way to develop modern design is to extract the essence from national culture and art, to inspire the creativity and imagination of design, and to innovate. Handmade products have a lot of living and development space in the modern market. Handmade products have become the synonym of high-end and individuality, which is also the irreplaceable support of many top brands. In fact, international famous clothing, jewelry, leather shoes, furniture and other brands rely on handicraft support. Designers must combine traditional craftsmanship with modern technology. Only by using advanced digital technology can the Miao decorative art patterns be preserved and widely used in modern design. Consequently, let the ancient Miao decorative art become active, gradually adapt to the modern society. People should not only promote the Miao culture, but also let the Chinese modern design with national characteristics go to the world.
