In one tour, the numbers of the duration of "2 days" account for 5%, "3-4 days" 34.2%, "more than 5 days" 18.3%, and "uncertain" 42.5%. By data we can see... that numbers of tourists whose duration is "3 days or more" account for more than half, and nearly forty percent of tourists' golf tourism duration are fluid. In the choices of the tourism season, 66.7% are "not sure", which may be associated with kunming's four spring-like climate, coupled with its regional diversity, all of which make it possible to play golf any time throughout the year.

II) Consumption, destination options and analysis

On respondents' main consumptions, 70.8% is "golf course consumption", 25.8% is "tourism consumption", 3.4% is "shopping consumption", which proves that golf course consumption is the main. In the choices of yunnan golf tourism destinations, 69.2% are "kunming", 10% and 20.8% are "Dali" and "lijiang" respectively. So kunming is the most favorite partly because of its convenient traffic, urban development degree in advantages and good qualities in golf courses. In the choices of traveling cities, "one city" (48.3%), "two cities" (29.2%), "three and above" (22.5%), which show that golf courses and the great tourism resources are attractive to them.

III) Tourism motives and analysis

Among the main reason for the golf tourism in yunnan, 55.8% and 48.3% respectively choose "climate" and "field", 20.8% and 19.2% choose "other tourism resources" and "service level". This proves that tourists attach more importance to the unique climatic conditions and high quality courses.

In the choice on "The purpose of the golf tourism in yunnan province", "leisure", "meet friends with golf ", "experience", "have a special liking for golf tourism" are 36.7%, 40.0%, 31.7% and 40.0%, respectively. Therefore the unique charm of golf, together with high quality tourist resources in yunnan province deeply attract tourists from different areas. The "business need" (37.5%) also illustrates fact that golf has become a important way of social communications.

IV) Golf course attention degree and analysis

The paper conducts 5 aspects, and their orders from the most attached to the least are "quality", "popularity", "service level", "price", "distance". The standard deviation of "quality" is the minimum, so visitors generally consider the course quality the most widespread. The mean value of "distance" is the maximal and standard deviation is the minimum, which proves that areas of the course is not important in tourists, they in truth attach more importance to the playing participation and experiencing process. The standard deviation of "price" is the most biggest, which proves it will cause different influences to different tourists.

V) Golf tourism attention degree and analysis

The paper conducts 5 aspects, and their orders from the most attached to the least are "play golf", "service", "accommodation", "appreciate local customs", "shopping". In all respects tourists attach most importance to playing golf and the related service, then the shopping or other leisure activities. Through the data analysis, the standard deviation and variance of "service" and "accommodation" are the smallest, which proves that visitors identifies mostly in these two indexes. The discrete degree among "Shopping", "play golf" and "appreciate local customs" are bigger, which reflects tourists' opinions are different in these two indexes greatly. Parts of tourists only aim to play golf or relationships, doing businesses, others may go shopping or do something leisurely mainly.

72.5% of visitors will choose play golf together with travelling in yunnan if they have time. The reasons of their wouldn't stay is that: 64.2% of the tourists are "having no time", "the tourism events aren't attractive", "having no interests", "for other reasons" are 15.8%, 13.3% and 13.3% respectively. This show that most of the tourists have the intension of traveling except for playing golf. However, some reasons like tourists personal factors, the combining disadvantages between the golf and the tourism.

IV. CONCLUSIONS

The tourists of golf tourism in yunnan still are the high income people. Golf courses of high qualities and a variety of tourism resources brought by the unique climate and geographical diversity attract people most. Although there are different influences in the facets between tourists intensions and the playing prices, most of the tourists attach most importance to the superior quality golf courses, the services related to the golf playing, golf playing itself as well as the experience process. The organizational form of golf tourism in yunnan is diversified, however, tourists organizing is the most common way. At present, the golf tourism in yunnan still needs to improve the relevant organizations' service level and to further expand and develop its tourist resources' superiority, and the golf and tourism resources should be integrated to promote industries' healthy and long-term development.

Golf enterprises should take an active part in all kinds of travel fairs, such as fair opportunities to fully show the high-end tourism resources in yunnan and its image. To fully develop the self-organization of the golf, set up a variety of communities and make the folk organization develop healthily. Consider to construct the golf public courses, gradually making golf into the national fitness activities.
